

Center for Integrative Studies in Social Science Additional Major, Secondary Major, and Minor Double Counting Guidelines

In the spirit of maintaining and enhancing the interdisciplinary breadth of our major, students with a primary, secondary, or additional major in Interdisciplinary Studies in Social Science or in Global and International Studies in Social Science will not be permitted to select a concentration that directly corresponds to another major or a minor they are working toward. For example, if a student is pursuing a major in Anthropology, they will not enroll in the Anthropology concentration for Interdisciplinary Studies in Social Science. Students can apply a maximum of two courses from another major or minor to an IDS or GLIS major.